ARTICLES

Mark Mosko, Malinowski's magical puzzles: Towards a new theory of magic and precognition in Trobriand society.

Joost Fontein, “She appeared to be in some kind of trance”: Anthropology and the question of unknowability in a criminal trial.

Johan Pesca-Cabrera, World, an anthropological examination (part I).

Cristóbal Bonelli, What Pehuenche blood is: Hemic feasting, and intersubjective participation in Southern Chile.

Klaus Hamburger, From village to bush in four Watchi rites: A transformational analysis of ritual space and perspective.

Amiria Salmon, Transforming translations (part II): Addressing ontological alterity.

SPECIAL SECTION

How does anthropology know? Edited by Kiven Strohm and Bob White.

Johannes Fabian, Ethnography and intersubjectivity: Loose ends.

Peter Pels, After-objectivity: An historical approach to the intersubjective in ethnography.

Eric Gable, The anthropology of guilt and rapport: Moral mutuality in ethnographic fieldwork.

COLLOQUIA

The ontological French turn. Edited by John D. Kelly.

Philippe Descola, Modes of being and forms of predicating.

Marshall Sahlins, On the ontological scheme of Beyond nature and culture.

Mauro William Barbosa de Almeida, Diagrams.

Bruno Latour, Another way to compose the common world.

Kim Fortnam, From labour to the indunsent.

Michael M. J. Fischer, The lightness of existence and the origin of “French” anthropology.

Descola, Viveiros de Castro, Meillassoux and their celebrated ontological turn.

John D. Kelly, The ontological turn: Where are we?

FORA

Tim Ingold, That’s enough with ethnography?

Morals and life. Edited by Jane L. Guyer.

Jane L. Guyer, Durational ethics. Search, finding, and translation of Fauczecut’s “Essays on responsibility and liberty.”

John D. Kelly, The elementary forms of moral life? Responsibility, sacred things and Durkheim’s ontological turn.

BOOK SYMPOSIUM

Dider Fassin, The ethical turn in anthropology: Promises and uncertainties.

James Fainsen, Anthropologies of ethics: Where we’ve been where we are, where we might go.

Webb Keane, Freedom, reflexivity, and the sheer everydayness of ethics.

Edouard Kohm, Toward an ethical practice in the Anthropocene.

Michael Lempert, Uncertain ethics.

Cheryl Mattingly, Moral deliberation and the agentive self in Laidlaw’s ethics.

Vecna Dao, Ethics, the householder’s dilemma, and the difficulty of reality.

James Laidlaw, Response: Significant differences.

Bruno Latour, Technological does not mean material.

Chris Billard, Technologies of transmission.

Timo Ingold, Respiratory means: Mundane objects or bundles of affect?

Paul Greven, Brown. The friends of commerce smile.

Suzanne Küchler, Beyond objectification.

Pierre Lemelinier, Response: The blending power of things.

REPRINT

Rodney Needham, Synthetic Images.